Apollo
PROJECTS

We deliver award-winning, innovative warehouse and industrial spaces.

Constructing a highly-functional industrial or warehouse building takes more than just the right location: it means understanding how vehicles and large machinery will access the facility, and what systems will be needed to support day-to-day operations with the greatest efficiency.

At Apollo Projects, our expert team has a proven track record in delivering major facilities that continue to impress their owners. We've designed and built New Zealand Couriers' new Hamilton logistics hub; Port of Auckland's Waikato Freight Hub near Hamilton; and the award-winning Sorted Logistics warehouse and offices in Christchurch.

Apollo Projects' designs are smart and encourage time-saving efficiencies. Our work with Fliway Transport has seen them save between four to five hours of work each day thanks to their new cross-dock station, where incoming cargo is unloaded and put directly onto outgoing trucks.

Achieving these great results starts with getting to know our clients' needs and partnering with them to find the best solutions. We talk to every client about issues such as how vehicles will move around their building, how external yards should operate, and what water treatment systems they may need. This helps us to craft smart designs that translate into buildings that do the job right.

Be proud of your new industrial space or warehouse, with Apollo Projects.

Your trust is everything to us.

Apollo Projects has been delivering stunning facilities for organisations across Aotearoa since 2001. Our years of experience and highly skilled team ensure your building performs at its best, includes sustainable design, and is a project you can be proud to own.

When our founding directors, Craig Waghorn and Paul Lloyd started Apollo, they were determined to do things differently. They wanted to partner with clients from the very start and take peoples' building ambitions from concept all the way to reality – something the industry hadn't been doing.

We've grown a lot since those early days, but we've never lost sight of what matters most to us – building trusting relationships with the people we serve. It's central to the way we work.

Apollo Projects is different simply because we do the mahi as your partner and use our expertise to ensure your completed facility does what it should, on time and within budget.

It's our belief that a client's trust is everything, and we are as committed to this today as we were the day it all began.

We raise the bar and lead the way.

At Apollo Projects, we've never been afraid to raise the bar even higher and set new standards for what is possible. For us, success isn't something you leave to chance. We believe that the best buildings start with a solid foundation – their design.

Unlike other construction companies, we'll partner with you from the very start to ensure your design works for you. This means getting involved in your project at the beginning and taking the journey with you right up until we hand you the keys.

We listen to your needs, talk to the right trades early, and craft innovative solutions that ensure your building performs as it should. It's a way of working that reduces the risk of your project needing costly design changes down the track.

Our experts know what works and what doesn't, and our partnerships with key consultants and contractors ensure you're getting competitive prices, quality and performance, every time.

Talk to us today about making your project a reality.

"Apollo looked at our operation in terms of needs and wants and responded accordingly with an efficient design and specification. They really took the time to understand our business and this showed in the design outcomes"
